

Wonderland Trail

The Wonderland Trail offers hikers one of the most breathtaking ways to see Mount Rainier National Park—an opportunity to simultaneously experience its history and scenic grandeur. The 93 mile trail circles the mountain, passing through major life-zones of the park, from lowland forests to subalpine meadows of wildflowers. Hikers meet with commanding views of Mount Rainier blanketed by 25 icy glaciers. Although thousands hike the historic Wonderland Trail each summer, many stretches of the trail still provide the chance to experience the solitude of the wilderness.

History	At the turn of the century, the “Wonderland” served as a major draw for tourists, as it still does today. Rangers also used the trail as a patrol	beat, and today the original ranger cabins are still used by park staff. The oldest is at Indian Henry’s Hunting Ground, constructed in 1915.

Weather	Most Wonderland hikers plan their trips between July and September. The trail is partially snow covered through June and is difficult to follow without excellent navigational skills. Whenever you hike, be prepared for mud,	rain, sun, and possible snow showers. Carry an ice axe during early summer or late fall. A sturdy tent with a rainfly is a necessity, as are “the ten essentials.” For information about what to bring, ask for a free Wilderness Trip Planner .

Trail Conditions	The Wonderland Trail traverses many ridges and valleys that radiate from Mount Rainier. A daily hike of 7 to 10 miles is recommended to compensate for the ruggedness of the trail. Daily elevation gains and losses of over 3,500 feet are common. Allow 10 to 14 days to hike the entire trail, depending on your hiking pace. The more time you give yourself, the more time	you will have to enjoy the Wonderland. Planning Your Trip	You will need a Wilderness Permit for each night you camp along the trail. Backcountry camps receive their heaviest use on Friday and Saturday nights, so if you are hiking only part of the trail, try to arrange your trip between Sunday and Thursday. There are eighteen trailside camps, 2 to 8 miles apart, along the Wonderland Trail. Each camp has 2 to 8 sites for 1 to 5 persons per site. Group sites are available at certain camps for parties of 6 to 12. Each camp has tent sites, a pit or composting toilet and a water source.	Note: The use of cross-country camps to fill itineraries is not permitted when designated camps are full. For more information, refer to the park’s “Wilderness Trip Planner” or talk to a park ranger about your options. Permits are issued on a first-come, first-served basis on the day your trip begins. However, an optional reservation system is available from April 1st to September 30th. Keep in mind that it is very difficult to do the entire WT without a reservation. A fee applies. Call (360) 569-HIKE for details or go to www.nps.gov/MORA.

Caching Your Food

By caching food and supplies at ranger stations and wilderness information centers along the Wonderland Trail, you can reduce the weight of your pack and increase the ease of your outdoor adventure. If you cache food and supplies, remember that there is no guarantee staff will be available when you arrive. Mail packages at least 2 weeks in advance, and call the park regarding cache drop off and pickup times to avoid frustration.

All caches must be packed in rodent proof containers (sealed hard plastic preferred). Drop them off or send caches via US mail or UPS to the stations listed below. Fuel can not be mailed as it is flammable, nor can it be stored at any ranger station. Fuel is available at the Longmire Gift Shop.

Longmire, Sunrise, and Mowich Lake are near the Wonderland Trail for easy cache pickup. The Ohanapecosh Ranger Station and White River Wilderness Information Center are not along the Wonderland Trail and require a side trip to reach a cache.

All caches must be clearly labeled with the following information, separate from the shipping label:

FOOD CACHE FOR: (PARTY LEADER’S NAME)
FOR PICKUP AT: (NAME OF CACHE STATION)
FOR PICKUP ON: (DATE)

Longmire	Caches are stored at the Longmire Wilderness Information Center and can be dropped off or picked up during business hours from Memorial Day weekend to September 30.
